

Sinclair has shown a clear political bias in several recent programming decisions, especially airing the anti-Kerry smear movie a few weeks before the election. They are not fulfilling their commitments to the FCC to serve the public interest, and they prove once again that concentrated corporate ownership of television stations is a bad idea.